Abstract- Master of one, but a jack of all trades is what the modern-day proverb looks like according to the competitive environment of the present. In this dynamic era, one must continuously learn new things in order to be in line with the whole world.

Indexed Terms- Continuous, learn, change, development

I. INTRODUCTION

“Anyone who stops learning is old, whether at twenty or eighty. Anyone who keeps learning stays young.” - Henry Ford.

One must be adaptive to change, be ready to move out of their comfort zones and be a continuous learner in order to be successful in all spheres of life. Change is inevitable and in order to cope up with it one must be ready to learn.

II. ELABORATIVE APPROACH

III. FINDINGS

It is important to be a continuous learner so that one can:

1. Remain relevant.
2. Prepare for the unexpected
3. Boost your profile
4. Competence leads to confidence
5. Spark new ideas

6. Change your perspective
7. Pay it forward

CONCLUSION

“Continuous improvement is better than delayed perfection.”-Mark twain

Modern day employers expect their employees to be multi-talented, who can handle multiple tasks, who have knowledge of all the related fields because sticking to one job or expertise or skill will become obsolete sooner or later. So it is important to be a continuous learner in order to avoid stagnation and reach your potential to its full.
